8. Webinar on "Internet of Things Applications in Smart Agriculture: Issues, Challenges and Solutions"- The Department of Computer Science of Shaheed Rajguru College of Applied Sciences For Women organized a webinar on "The Internet of things (IoT) Applications in Smart Agriculture" on 24th April 2020. The speaker of the webinar was Dr. Anuradha Chug, Assistant Professor at USCIT,GGSIPU. The session witnessed the participation of 127 participants including students and faculty members of various renowned colleges across Delhi NCR. Ms. Neha Gandhi, Assistant Professor, Dept. of Computer Science, introduced the speaker and the topic of the webinar to the participants.

   Dr. Anuradha Chug started the webinar with these words "The internet of things has the potential to change the world, just as the internet did, maybe even more". Therafter, she introduced everyone with the basic concept of IoT and its application in modern agriculture. She discussed the aspects IoT in agriculture and several applications like the monitoring soil moisture and temperature, controlled irrigation, and efficient usage of inputs like water, fertilizers, pesticides and crops monitoring through drones. She also enlightened the participants through the challenges of implementing IoT in Indian Agriculture Scenario with issues of small and dispersed landholding, affordability of the technologies, privacy and security concerns, and availability of internet connectivity at remote locations. Then, she also presented some real life case studies on which she along with her team is currently working. She ended her lecture by telling the participants about the benefits and concerns of IoT. As per Dr. Anuradha Chug, IoT can bring great advancements in our lives. Dr. Abha Jain, Assistant Professor, Dept. of Computer Science, presented the vote of thanks to the speaker, teacher-in-charge of department, faculty members and all the participants.
